

Do Over's

Everyone makes mistakes. The important thing is to learn from and not repeat your mistakes. Read the questions below and think about what you would do differently if you had a "do-over" for mistakes that you have made.

- ◆ Think about a time you used poor judgment in a situation. If you had the opportunity for a do-over what would you do differently? How would the outcomes have been different?
- ◆ Think about a time you did poorly on a test. If you had the opportunity for a do-over what would you do to do differently to better prepare for the test? What difference would it make?
- ◆ Think about a time you had an argument with a friend that did not end well. If you had the opportunity for a do-over how would you deal with your disagreement? How would this affect your friendship?
- ◆ Think about a time you made a decision you regret. If you had the opportunity for a do-over what decisions would you make? What difference would this altered/new decision had made?

Historical Do-Over's

How do you think history would be different if these decisions or actions were allowed a do-over?

The internment of the Japanese on American soil during WWII.

The creation of reservations for Native Americans.

The exclusion of women and African Americans from voting.

The invention of tobacco and smoking.

If you could alter one historical decision or event what would it be and why?
